To Whom It May Concern,

Funny Farm recently sold some Deluxe Macaroni and Cheese product to Mercatalyst for sale to their customers on various platforms. The product was originally manufactured with an intended shelf life of 18 months, but the packaging was unintentionally printed with 12 months instead. As a result, the Deluxe Macaroni and Cheese product sold to Mercatalyst has an additional 6 months of official code life left beyond what is printed on the product.

It is also important to note that even upon 'expiration date' of the product, the product poses no health or safety concerns. Instead, this date is the date at which you may start to see some color or taste degradation of the cheese packets inside the product boxes.

Please let Epic Source Foods know if you need any additional details regarding this product.

Thank you,
